

Stirring Addresses by Emmett Wilson

lobbyists and the legislators who represented the special interests. Then, he said, before he thought of aspiring to any political office he resolved to cast his lot with the men who favored bringing the government closer to the people.

No progressive fights legitimate business, but it is the wedding of illegitimate business with illegitimate politics which the progressives seek to destroy and to give the people a voice in the government. A few newspapers in the district which represent the interests who believe big business should dictate in the government have either openly or secretly cast slurs at him in his race, he said.

THE PARCELS POST.

The loudest applause during his speech was when he mentioned the parcels post and declared that he unqualifiedly favored it on the zone system which makes every postoffice a zone center with a radius of one hundred miles. He said he did not believe in hauling a package from Pensacola to Milton for the same rate it could be hauled to Seattle, for it would either be charging too much to haul it to Milton or too little to Seattle. With the zone system in operation it will benefit the local merchant by increasing his territory and it will prove a vast benefit to the farmer. The zone system will eliminate the mail order house in the distance. He explained that the Southern, American, Adams and the Wells-Fargo express companies were the ones opposing the parcels post and he said he refused to take his "political gospel" from such people.

The initiative, referendum and recall were mentioned. The speaker said they would not have to be considered by congress, but he wanted the people to know how he stood on every question. This step to bring the government closer to the people he said is opposed by the same people who opposed the primary system and who oppose every forward movement. He said standpatters may be necessary evils but they never accomplish anything for a district.

improve them Mr. Wilson says he favors and will devote every bit of his influence and energy to get adequate appropriations.

RELATIVE TO MAYS.

Congressman Mays was given some consideration by Mr. Wilson and he read a portion of a letter showing that Judge Parkhill is not supporting nor did he withdraw from the race to help Mr. Mays. He says Mr. Mays is asking for re-election because he pretends to be a farmer, because he is a man of experience and because he has gotten appropriations. Mr. Wilson said the present congressman has not the nerve to state his position on any subject and had not made any speeches during the campaign but sent his private secretary and Mr. Kilpatrick, men employed by the government, to talk for him while Mays "gum-shoed it around the district." This the speaker declares unfair to the candidates and that Mays should meet them upon the stump. With reference to Mr. Mays's claims of being a farmer the speaker said he owns hundreds of acres of lands in Leon, Madison and Jefferson counties and that he farms from behind a roll-top desk, his "experience" has not led him to utter one word upon the floor of the house and that Mays had been running for office since since Wilson could first remember. Of the appropriation for which Mr. Mays takes credit Mr. Wilson showed that more than two hundred thousand dollars of this amount Mr. Mays had nothing to do with and that in many instances the appropriations Mays asked for the amounts were increased after they had gotten to the senate.

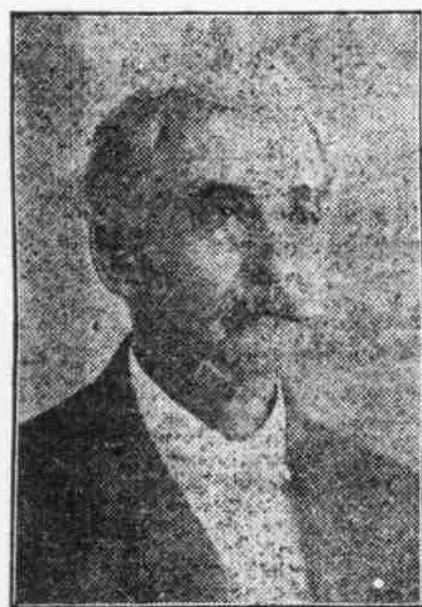

He says Congressman Mays promises to have the navy yard opened, but the speaker said he could not imagine his influence being great enough to do it now when it was not enough to prevent its closing, and he told of a conversation with an Ohio congressman who knew all of the Florida delegation in Washington but had never heard of Mays.

In closing his remarks Mr. Wilson said he had been accused of being too young and he gave an account of his official and private record as a worker. He had graduated from Stetson Uni-

"Our State Superintendent"

W. N. SHEAST,
Candidate for State Superintendent.

"In making this our last biennial report to the present state superintendent, who will retire at the close of this year, we wish to bear testimony to the magnificent work accomplished under his able administration.

"We were county superintendent under his predecessor, and during the whole of his three terms, and have been a close observer of the educational progress of the state. Never, in the history of Florida, has greater good been done or advancement made than during his admirable administration, and that directly through his fearless, personal efforts. He retires, leaving behind him a complete and efficient educational system as can be found anywhere in the United States.

WE NEED A NEW BOARD OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

Look This Over Before You Cast your Vote

The present board has given away the county money ever since they have been in office. They authorized all jail extras except the foundation. They never have stopped the extras. They were in charge. They could have had the jail finished without changes or extras. In their advertisement in The Journal of April 21st, they stated that they have ALREADY OVERPAID Blount Construction Co. on the jail several thousands of dollars. If that is true it is nothing to their credit that they refused to overpay $43,000 more. SOMEBODY MUST HAVE SCARED THEM OR THEY WOULD HAVE PAID IT ALL RIGHT.

The present Board of County Commissioners let a contract to Turner Construction Co. for finishing the jail plumbing at over $5,500, when A. R. Bingham's bid for the same work was $3,000. A private citizen, Geo. P. Wentworth, at his own expense enjoined the board and stopped that $3,500 loss to the county. Economy? This board has done nothing but spend money foolishly.

They turned down Marston & Quina's bid on the steel furniture when their bid was OVER $4,200 LOWER than the out of town bid. The Board called for new bids, so the out of town concern could reduce their bid.

This board spent over $1,400 for carpets for the jail.

A sample of this board's business ability: They authorized the contractor to change specifications for an inside partition from 12 inch to a 9-inch wall and allowed him $165 for same as an extra. It really saved the contractor $165 and lost the county $330.

If there is any office in the county that needs NEW MEN, it is the County Commissioners' Office.

If you are interested in the good of the county, vote for a NEW BOARD of County Commissioners.
